UNDERSTANDING ELECTRIC EQUIPMENT RESPONSIBILITIES

As July rolls in with longer days and rising temperatures, there is also an increased potential for severe weather. Summer storms can arrive quickly and hit hard, sometimes causing significant damage to essential electric equipment throughout our community.

Daviess-Martin County REMC is always prepared to respond swiftly to outages and restore power safely, but it is also important for homeowners to understand which parts of the electric system are their responsibility and which are maintained by us at the co-op. Understanding these key differences can help speed up repairs and ensure everyone stays safe when the weather turns rough.

Daviess-Martin County REMC is responsible for maintaining and repairing the equipment and lines that run to your home, including utility poles, distribution power lines, electric meters, and pad-mounted transformers.

Daviess-Martin County REMC members are responsible for the equipment located between the electric meter and your home or business, including any underground service lines leading into the structure and the service panel. Members are also responsible for the weatherhead and service mast located outside the home.

If any equipment you (the homeowner) are responsible for is damaged, please call a licensed electrician to conduct the repairs. A professional has the experience and know-how to assess and manage these repairs.

When severe weather damages electrical equipment, it's important to note that any necessary repairs to the homeowner's equipment must be conducted before Daviess-Martin County REMC crews can restore power to your home or business. Understanding the equipment you are responsible for will make the repair and restoration process smoother and faster.

Our community takes great pride in the beautiful trees and landscaping that contribute to the natural beauty where we live. However, regular trimming is essential to ensure reliable electric service and minimize damage from severe weather. Daviess-Martin County REMC regularly trims trees throughout our service territory to improve service reliability.

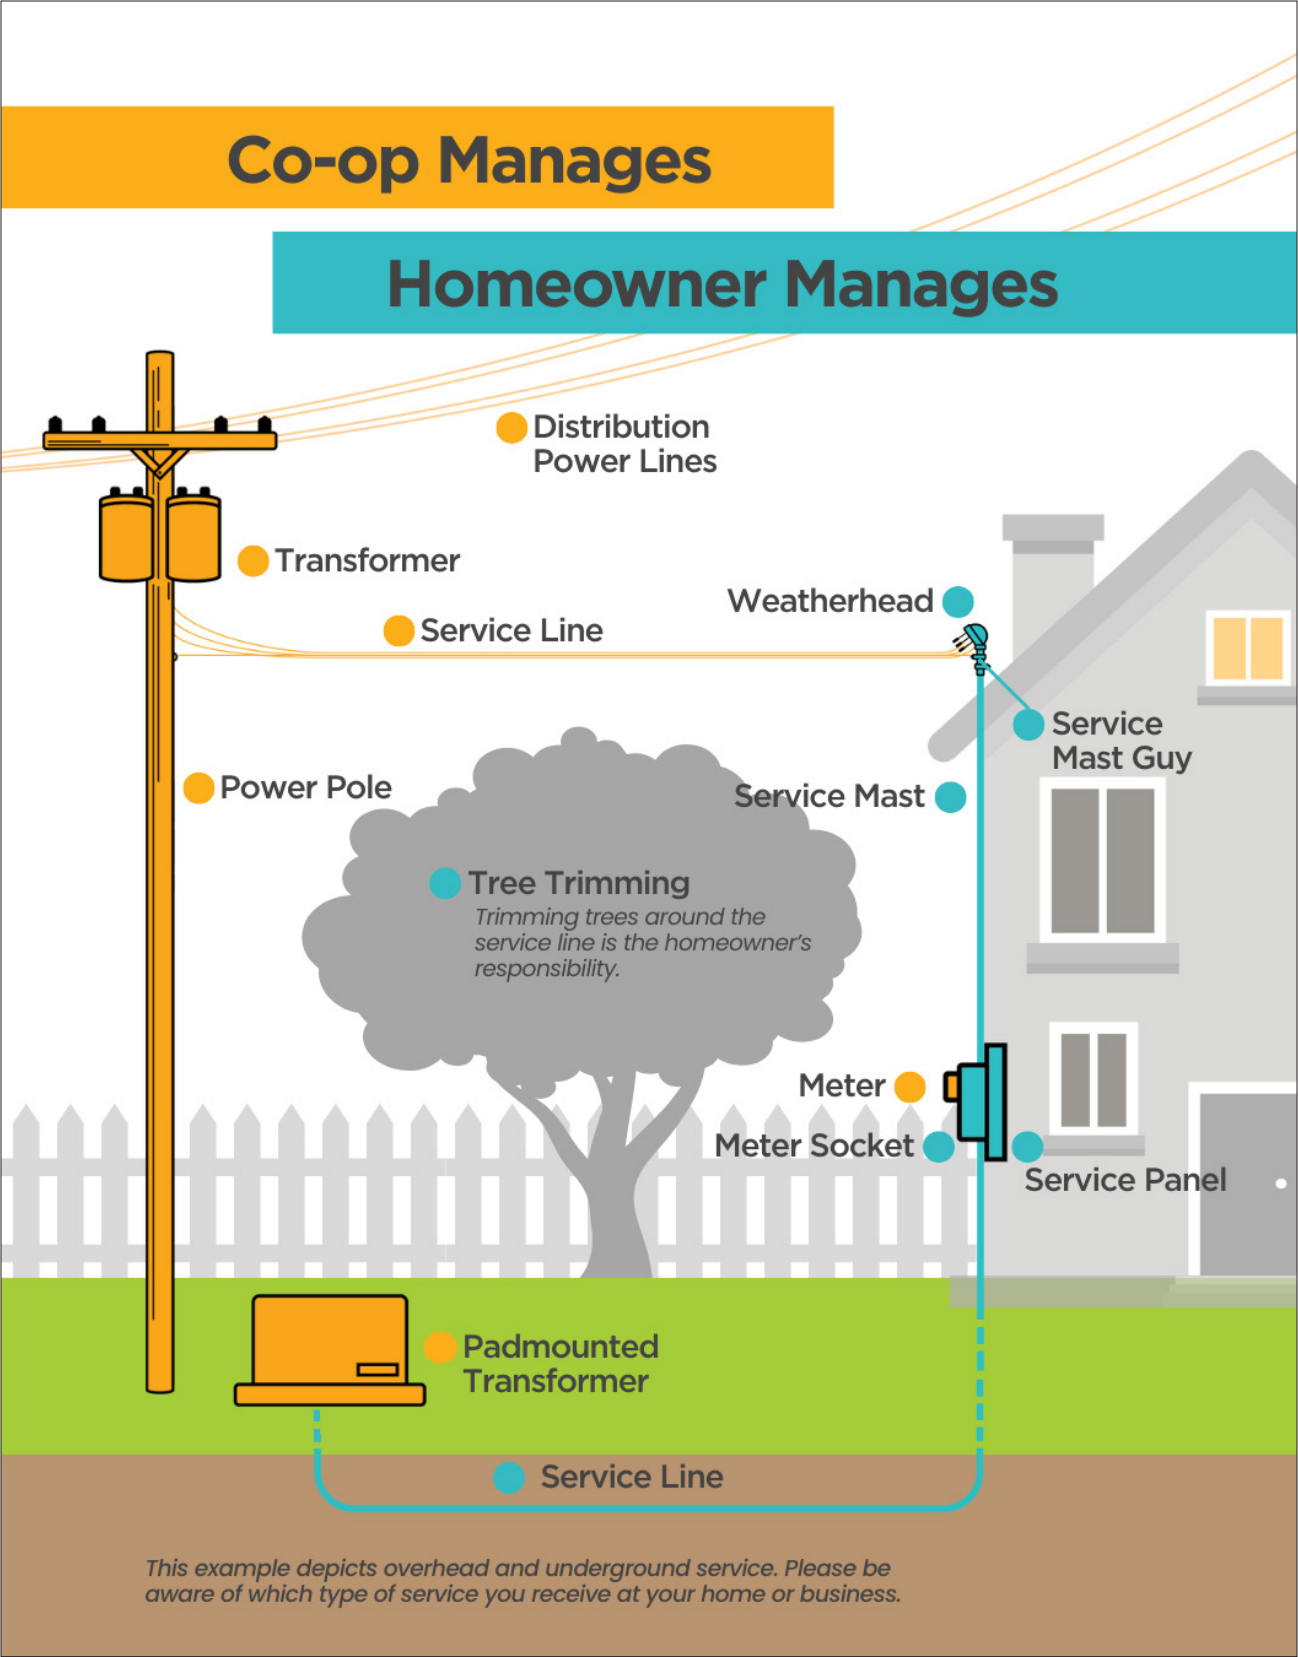

Any overgrown limbs or vegetation around the service line is the homeowner's responsibility, and in these cases, please call a professional tree trimming service to assist.

By working together to understand the essential equipment that powers daily life, we can all be better prepared to start the repair and restoration process if severe weather impacts our community.

You can find an infographic on the next page. If you have any questions about your electrical equipment, we're here to help. Please contact Daviess-Martin County REMC at 812-295-4200.

Kicking off summer vacation at Camp Kilowatt

Daviess-Martin County REMC sponsored eight students at the annual Camp Kilowatt, which was held June 4-7, 2025, at Camp Tecumseh in Brookston, Indiana.

Students entering seventh grade this fall were eligible to attend and were selected by their local cooperative to participate in the four-day program. The students' agenda combined traditional outdoor camp activities, electrical safety practices, and cooperative business education.

"This was a great way for students to learn about the role of the electric cooperative in their community. On top of that, they experienced all the fun of camp," said Becca Hollaway, communications specialist of Daviess-Martin County REMC.

Students representing Daviess-Martin County REMC at Camp Kilowatt were:
